

Climate Change Impact Update

The Island of Kiribati

Join us for a showing and discussion of the DVD, "The Hungry Tide", about the Pacific nation of Kiribati that is on the front lines of climate change. Sea level rise threatens the lives of 105,000 people in this vulnerable corner of the Pacific. Kiribati's President Anote Tong, acutely aware of the gravity of the sea rise around their homeland, says his government lacks the resources to fix the problems, and believes the eventual relocation of the entire nation is inevitable. See the historic story of what may become the first nation forced to move due to global warming.
